WHAT CAN A CIVILIAN DO?

During the last few days millions of civilians in the United States have longed to do something to help their fighting men endure the hardships and dangers of one of the hardest jobs ever tried in the history of war.

They have yearned for something more satisfying than the routine duties they are performing at home and have had a sense of being left out of something they needed to share.

This is the psychological background for the beginning of the Fifth War Loan campaign. It does not insure the success of the campaign, but it will help. It will help because it makes so obvious the need for a sharing of the sense of duty between fighting men and civilians in wartime.

It has been our civilian privilege to earn wages from the prosecution of the war. We have been asked to invest as much of our earnings as possible in the nation's future buying power, instead of spending to the limit at a time when the things we can buy are scarce and, therefore, subject to price inflation.

We have responded to the common sense of this wartime appeal. To a large extent, the purchase of War Bonds and Stamps has become a part of our civilian routine—a part of the performance of our routine civilian duty.

If we continue to perform that duty and if we respond to the sacrifices of our fighting men by going beyond the call of ordinary duty, as thousands of them are now doing on a new front in Europe, the Fifth War Loan campaign will be a repetition of its successful predecessors. It is as simple as that. We are not being asked to give anything, not even money. We are being asked only to invest purchasing power we do not need to use now, so that in the years to come we may use it to the mutual advantage of ourselves and our country.

FIRST WEEK

It seems incredible that the momentous undertaking in Normandy has been in progress for a week. It is a battle against time as well as Germany's defense—the time needed to carry out the planned and improvised attacks on the enemy and the time needed to transport the equipment to offset Germany's more readily accessible material and manpower.

We are warned that the issue may not be determined for as long as two more weeks, and there is the possibility, of course, that it may take longer. Pending conclusive evidence that the invasion can be made to stick, there will continue to be the possibility, also, of failure. Allied morale must be fortified not only with patience, but faith.

Announcement of the arrival in London at the close of last week of the three top United States commanders, Gen. Marshall, Admiral King and Gen. Arnold, whatever interpretation may be made of it by Germany, is explained satisfactorily as a planned meeting of the combined chiefs of staff, timed to take place as soon after beginning of the invasion as practicable.

It is plain that everything possible is being done to assure the success of the operation, and it is a parent in the course of developments up to this point that careful, thorough planning has been rewarded with reasonable favorable results. The invasion is going as well as could be expected by those whose expectations were turned to the realities of the problem.

Unfortunately, there was a tendency among many of us to surrender to our wishful thoughts and believe invasion might be done more quickly than we now realize ever was possible. There will be a reaction from the first excitement of the event and a certain reluctance to face the facts which military spokesmen warned were certain to be encountered. High hopes will have to give way to grim purpose at home, as they have given way long since in the battle confusion in Normandy.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S HEALTH

The report of President Roosevelt's personal physician that the checkup late last month at the naval medical center showed the President's physical condition was better than that of the average man of 62 will not answer the question which circumstances have raised on the point in question.

It is not pleasant to be forced to think objectively about Mr. Roosevelt's physical condition, but one particular circumstance demands it. If Mr. Roosevelt becomes the Democratic presidential candidate for a fourth time, and particularly if his running mate turns out to be Henry A. Wallace again, the state of his health will be a critical point in the presidential campaign.

A medical opinion that he is in better condition than the average man of his age is inconclusive; the public does not know what it means. It does know, on the other hand, that since March, 1933, Mr. Roosevelt has been bearing the rigors of his office and that last winter he was the victim of a series of winter illnesses which finally forced him to seek respite from the presidential routine. In all probability, he had an experience a 62-year-old man could expect while holding down one of the hardest jobs ever created by circumstances, but the question is whether any man his age—even though healthier than the average—can be counted a good presidential risk, especially in combination with a vice presidential candidate who does not command wide public confidence.

ONE-PARTY CURSE

The shaky transfer of Italian authority from the uncertain hands of Victor Emmanuel III to Crown Prince Humbert, still an uncertain quantity, illustrates the difficulty of political stabilization in Europe. The prospect can be no brighter after the passing of this war than it was after its predecessor—and a generation of practice in the techniques of political infiltration probably will add even tougher complications.

Europe has sickened and suffered under the one-party curse. It has squandered the heritage of tolerance which the liberal movements of the late 19th century hoped might be cherished. Political ambition aims to establish exclusive authority to be maintained thereafter at all costs. Minorities have no rights which they cannot impose by revolution. There is no allowance for peaceful transfer of authority from one set of hands to another.

War's chaos has been an invitation to politicians and their followers to engage in a hectic scramble for early advantage in the first days of peace. Insofar as the Allies dare to hope for equitable settlements of rivalries at all, they only can hope the ultimately dominating authority will be reasonably representative of something that can be identified as a majority—and that the new leaders will not follow in the footsteps of the Mussolinis and Hitlers who were spawned by the political confusion which followed the other war.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, June 13

WHILE THERE are indications of progress, preferment, pleasure and attainment of cherished hopes and wishes, judging by the lunar transits there must be much tact, moderation, good nature and clear judgment used in the effort to capture such objectives and accruing gratifications. Any show of expediency, forced issues, or inaccuracy may offend those able to assist to desired goals. Be reticent when possible, cheerful and complacent, while endeavoring to realize such unforeseen benefits. Be courteous with superiors in domestic and social contacts.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of some sort of unpredictable benefits, with pleasures unlooked for, tokens of good will and preferment, but this only by the use of restraints of actions and speech, with finesse, graciousness and tact toward those whose favor or support, are essential. This show of consideration, modesty, conformity and understanding may prove gainful in some unexpected way as well as, in social, domestic and romantic affiliations—being agreeable rather than forceful or impetuous.

A child born on this day may have excellent opportunities and good fortune, with pleasure and success, if it will exert its finer social and agreeable qualities rather than impulse and immoderation.

The view of the fact that Series E War bonds redeemed during May amounted to 38 per cent of the bond sales for that month, the fellow who keeps his bond he has already bought is as patriotic as the person who agrees to buy a new one.

Effective immediately, the word "catastrophe" will be eliminated from all reports and orders and also from the vocabulary in general—German orders in Italy.

Let no one think for a moment that it does not take courage for any soldier to parachute from an airplane behind the enemy lines.

Body Development a Magical Process

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE GROWTH of the body, a phenomenon going on under our eyes every day, is indeed so familiar that it has lost its magic and wonder for us. But nothing more beautiful and intricate and delicate could be imagined. If the finest engineer in the world with all the best technical experts he could choose were to go to it with the materials Nature has at hand I guarantee he would make a batch of it of monumental proportions, at old Mother Nature accomplishes it time after time with very few mistakes and all too often for the sake of the motions of her audience with astonishingly gratifying results.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Oh, the engineer could hark out the rough models of arms, legs and torso and put a clothing dummy together well enough. But suppose he had to do it little cell by little cell, and with the chemical supply for new material being delivered just so much every day and each day every part grew just so much proportionately to the others—this arm grew a little and the other arm exactly as much and both grew in proportion to the growth of the legs and the skin grew to cover it all and the hair and teeth sprouted to make it look presentable. Yes, quite a building job Mother Nature does.

Growth of Body

Let us consider some of the features of it. We start out with a little roly-poly ball of human flesh with its arms and legs very short and its head and abdomen very big. The bones begin to grow and the form begins to mold, the chest grows faster than the abdomen and both grow faster than the head. Then at adolescence it shoots up with great speed and looks as if it were going to be all out of proportion and then the bones ossify and when the process is all finished it is seen that a kind of plan has been carried out.

Consider how exact certain proportions are. The span of the adult is exactly the same as his height. In other words, the distance between your finger tips with the arms stretched straight out from the body is the same as the distance between your heels on the floor and the top of your head. You are divided into two equal halves from the floor up, the distance between your heels and the meeting of the pelvic bone in the center of your body being exactly the same as the distance between the pelvic bone and the top of your head. A tape measure put around your head, chest and abdomen should show proportions of about 7/12, 11/12 and 9/12, respectively.

Mother Nature's job is a godsend to the ready-made clothing merchants.

The Ductless Glands

The engineering firm in charge of this operation is the Ductless Glands, Incorporated. They do all the planning and compose all the labor trouble between the body cells who are the brickmasons and carpenters and painters and decorators. The members of the firm are actually Messrs. Thyroid, Pituitary and Gonads. They don't always agree.

Old man Pituitary is an impetuous gink and he likes the arms and legs long and wants big tall people. Little Mr. Thyroid has refined tastes and he likes people with short, delicate arms and legs and fingers. Gonad is a roughneck and all he wants is plenty of hair and heavy bones and a deep voice. Between them pulling this way and that they equalize each other and achieve teamwork usually and the result turns out all right. Sometimes one of them gets the bit in his teeth and in that case the sample is out of proportion.

If you want to test out how things are going in your own offspring the average figures for boys are:

At 4 years—Span 39 1/2 in.; upper half body 23 in.; lower half 17 1/2 in.

At 10 years—Span 53 in.; upper half body 26 3/4 in.; lower half 26 3/4 in.

At 15 years—Span 64 in.; upper half body 32 1/2 in.; lower half 31 1/2 in.

At 20 years—Span 68 1/2 in.; upper half body 33 1/2 in.; lower half 34 1/2 in.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. D.: What is the test for telling anemia by the palm of the hand?

Answer: Hold the palm of the hand at the level of the heart, and compare it for color with the palm of a healthy person held in the same position. The color of the anemic palm is pale.

L. C. E.: Will you give a sample days raw food diet, about which you wrote for arthritis?

Answer: A modification which makes the diet more palatable but does not change the high potassium content, which is its good point is:

Breakfast: Raw fruit. Tea with lemon and sugar. Soft cooked egg. Salt-free bread and butter. Marmalade or honey.

Luncheon: 200 to 300 grams of raw vegetables. Mayonnaise. Raw fruit. Salt-free pastry (like a cherry tart).

Dinner: Cheese souffle or salt-free pancakes with fruit preserves or

A Model is Murdered - BABS LEE

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Roger Flagg was sitting up in bed when Argus was ushered into his room in the hospital. Aside from looking a little pale, the model agent appeared no worse for the "accident." A young nurse with blonde hair and a piquant face, Flagg's pillows behind his back.

"You can see him for a few minutes," she said. "Then he must rest." She left the room.

"Well, smiled Argus. 'I get shot at what happens? Nothing. But look at you. Pretty nurse and every-thing.'"

Flagg grinned. "With all due respect to my lovely nurse, I'd still rather be up and around. They've promised to let me go home in the morning, provided I stay quiet. I read in the morning paper about your being shot. How did it happen?"

Argus reached in his pocket for a cigarette. "Mind if I smoke?" he asked.

"Go ahead," declared Flagg. Argus offered one to the model agent and then recalled that he didn't smoke.

"I guess some one figured it was an open season," the detective said, lighting his cigarette. "I don't know how about you though? That happened to you?"

"Well," answered Flagg slowly, "I was called earlier in the evening and asked me if I'd meet him in his studio around nine. He didn't say what he wanted but I gathered from the way he spoke, it had something to do with Syria."

"Elen was to have posed for him," said Argus. "Seems strange that he should make two appointments for the same hour."

"I didn't know that," asserted Flagg. "But then I thought the whole thing rather odd. Sturgis had never been very good friends. But I was planning to have dinner in the neighborhood, so I decided to run up afterwards and see what it was all about."

"Don't let it get to be a habit," warned Argus. "Remember when Cynthia Lane wanted to see you, you ran into trouble, too?"

"It is strange at that," Flagg's eyes dilated. "Do you suppose some one is trying to put me on the spot?" Flagg's brow contracted.

"You know, Argus, I'm almost sure something of this sort hasn't happened before now."

"Why is that?"

"I guess you'd have to hold down a job for a while to understand. I get some of the craziest letters and phone calls from jealous lovers and suspicious husbands. The guy always positive his heart's desire is embarked on a life of sin when he takes up modelling—whereas ninety per cent of the girls are just youngsters like Elen, and are perfectly normal, everyday girls."

"Now that you mention it," Argus said, "I suppose I've been a little on the jealous side myself. I can understand how some of these foot-town swains would fear the best about their inamoratas—posing around the studios and that sort of thing."

Flagg nodded. "Most of 'em have too many movies or read books about casting directors who make asses of the applicants. One big rouser threatened to knock my block off when his girl began to make more money than he was making."

Argus laughed. "Well, it's a consolation to learn that you have some thorns amongst your roses, anyhow," he said. "I've envied you ever since I was up in your office. How'd you finally get rid of the guy?"

"Simply by showing him the pictures of several hundred other beautiful models that were doing as well as his heart-throb."

"Safety in numbers, eh, Roger?" jibed Argus. "Go on with the other story. What happened at Pierre's studio?"

"The studio door was unlocked when I arrived and the keys were on the outside of the door. I took them inside. There was a light burning in the studio and I went on in. I got as far as the office and noticed that Sturgis' papers were all over his desk as though some one had been going through them. I walked over and dropped the keys on the desk, and was about to sit down and wait when I heard a sound behind me. I turned and saw a man in the doorway. He fired once and that was all."

"And you don't know who it was?"

"I haven't any idea. The whole thing happened so quickly. I remember that I started toward him, but he got away. Then I must have become dizzy. I tried to hold myself up—"

"What do you think he was after?" Argus asked.

"I don't know. Something on the desk probably. I may have disturbed him at his work, or he may have been lying in wait for me to leave and when I didn't—" Flagg frowned.

"Did you know that a handkerchief had been placed over your wound?"

"Yes. I have a hazy recollection of doing that, before I passed out." He ran his hand across his forehead.

"Do you think it might have been Sturgis who shot you?"

"Of course not. Why should he? We're not exactly pals, but he certainly would have no reason to murder me."

"Unless, of course, you thought that Pierre killed Syria and Cynthia Lane."

"No," said Flagg, "frankly I don't think that."

"You know that Sturgis is missing?"

"Yes. Inspector Grange told me. He came up to question me earlier." He shivered. "I'm just lucky my assailant's aim was so poor. It's only a flesh wound."

The nurse returned and told Argus his time was up. The detective said goodbye to Flagg. Downstairs in the lobby he phoned police headquarters. Inspector Grange was out but there was a message for Argus. "The chief says you was right," said the desk sergeant, "and if you phoned, to tell you to go to 7103 Third Avenue, Apartment 2P. He just left here a minute ago himself." Argus thanked him and hung up.

Steel got out of a cab on the corner of Third Avenue and the 7100 block. Number 7103 was a somber looking building with an old iron fire-escape defacing its front. A sign hung over the door: "Apartments for Rent Furnished."

Argus walked up to the entrance. He pushed the bell of 2P and was rewarded with a clicking sound. He opened the door. Facing him inside the dim, box-car hallway was a flight of sloping stairs. Argus walked up. The door to 2P was ajar.

Grange poked his gray head out. "Hello, Steele! You sure got here fast."

"Yes," said Argus. "What's up? Is this Redbeard's hideout?"

"Come in and see for yourself. My men and I just got here." He led the way into a full-sized living room, with yellowed lace curtains at the windows. Argus eyed the sagging blue couch that stood in one corner. It was partially hidden by the angle of a refectory table which was covered with a piece of dingy mulberry velvet. On the table was a telephone. To the right was an alcove. Here Argus stopped short.

"There's your Redbeard," Grange said dramatically.

Lying on the floor, staring up at the ceiling, was Pierre Sturgis. His face was a ghastly white. Blood had dried on the corner of his gray overcoat. The medical examiner bending over him at regular intervals the photographer's flash-bulbs exploded. Argus stood there for several seconds, just staring. Grange watched him intently.

"When did this happen?" Argus asked, finally.

"As near as we can place it, around ten last night," related Grange. "His watch shattered when he fell. It stopped at ten-ten. He was killed with the same caliber gun that got Flagg." Argus studied the position of the body.

There were obvious signs of a struggle. Powder burns showed around the wound. The medical examiner told him that Sturgis had been shot through the heart.

"We found this in his pocket," said Grange, producing the missing column from the Blade. Argus nodded thoughtfully.

"At last," he said under his breath. "When did you find Sturgis, Inspector?"

"About half an hour ago. I sort of took your tip about Redbeard having a hideout near Syria's apartment. I had a couple of men checking up in this neighborhood. One of them got to talking with the superintendent of this building and he described a man with a reddish beard as having rented this place late Thursday afternoon. Said he gave the name of Stoffsky."

Genuine Auto Parts At H. I. Hine Garage Assured

- Genuine motor parts are a problem to many dealers and, like most everything else, the original manufacturer is usually better equipped and has a very definite interest in maintaining a parts department that furnishes the identical materials that go into the car as originally delivered.
- Other factors are also present. But if you consider this one point you would never buy some part sold as just as good—but always insist upon the genuine and have it installed by trained mechanics who really know the correct adjustment of your car.
- The H. I. Hine Motor Co., Ford, Mercury and Lincoln dealer, refuses to use other than genuine motor parts and you may be certain their factory approved mechanical department will do satisfactory work at a reasonable cost.
- ### Automobile Wheels Get Out of Alignment Easily
- When a car is in motion, the wheels become dyroscopes; and as the speed increases the centrifugal force becomes so tremendous that when wheels are out of balance a definite shimmy effect is set up and this causes excessive tire wear as well as extra wear to the wheel bearings and other front end bearings.
- If your car develops any vibration that increases as the speed goes up, it's reasonable to assume the wheels are out of balance. Malt Klein's specialized garage is equipped with the Bear Dy-ro-scope Wheel Balancer. With this equipment the mechanic can soon prove the true condition of wheel balance and if necessary, by the use of small lead weights can eliminate any out of balance condition.

Rock Wool Insulation Makes Homes Comfortable

Make your home comfortable both summer and winter with John-Manville "blown" Rock Wool.

You spend your life seeking bodily comfort for yourself and for your family because you know that better health and happiness will result. Actually, you are seldom conscious of being comfortable, but you instantly realize when you are uncomfortable. You like to live, work, play, eat and sleep in comfortable places, and comfort to a large degree is governed by temperature. When you feel cold, you seek warmth. When you are hot, you seek coolness.

Most people think they live in comfortable houses, but actually this is far from true. Many dwellings are little more than shelters from wind and rain. In spite of the most modern heating systems, these houses are usually cold, drafty and hard-to-heat in winter. And in summer, the hot rays of the sun heat the interiors so that they remain extremely uncomfortable long after sundown.

The purpose of insulating a house is to help prevent summer heat from penetrating through walls and roofs, and to help prevent interior heat in winter from escaping to the cold air outside. When this is scientifically done, houses are comfortable the year round and become healthier and more pleasant places in which to live.

Ice Refrigeration Is Praised by Tolerton Co.

With ice refrigeration it is not necessary to keep vegetables and fruits or meats in covered dishes or wrapped in paper. The melting of the ice keeps vegetables crisp, just as they come from the garden, because it's a moist cold, while mechanical refrigeration drains the moisture from vegetables or other foods, actually drying or wilting your foods.

In ice refrigerators of recent manufacture washed and humidified air is circulated through the food compartment. This circulated air prevents food odor exchanges in the foods, for the moisture traps the odors which leaves the refrigerator as water through the drain and cold, fresh air is continually passing over the foods, completing the circulation cycle.

If in doubt as to just what refrigerator to purchase, call the Citizens Ice and Coal Co. for expert advice.

Cody-Mansell Vows Are Exchanged

The marriage of Miss Alice Mansell, daughter of Mrs. Wilbur Hulston of East Palestine, to Arthur Cody, Jr., seaman first class in the U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cody, Sr., of Cedar st., was solemnized at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday in East Palestine.

Rev. Finney, pastor of the Nazarene church, officiated at the double ring ceremony at his home in East Palestine. Mrs. Betty Hall and Charles Faulkner of East Palestine were attendants. The groom's mother and Mrs. Walter Callahan of East Palestine, a sister of the bride, were present at the ceremony.

The bride wore a poudre blue suit with navy accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Her attendant wore a soldier blue suit with white accessories.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given at the home of the bride's sister in East Palestine. After a short wedding trip, Seaman Cody will return to duty and the bride will make her home in East Palestine.

Mrs. Cody attended East Palestine High school. The groom attended Salem High school, entering service in August, 1941. He is spending a 30-day leave here serving two years with the naval forces in Panama.

Fred Oesch Is Elected Reunion Group Head

The William Oesch family reunion at Centennial park Sunday was attended by relatives from Winona, Alliance, Salem and North Benton. A basket picnic dinner was held at noon, followed by a business meeting and election of officers.

Fred Oesch of Salem succeeds Roy Zimmerman of Salem as president. Miss Jane Mounts was named secretary-treasurer.

The reunion next year will be held the second Sunday in June at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mounts, Winona.

Sorority Members Plan Future Events

Omega Nu Tau sorority members completed plans for a "play" party at a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Cy Porter on Newgarden st. The members will attend the performance of "Tried and True" at the Salem High school next week.

New by-laws were discussed and adopted. Tentative plans for the chapter's anniversary dinner June 27 were discussed during the session.

Mrs. William Lutz Feted At Shower

Mrs. William Lutz, the former Miss Blanche Weingart, a recent bride, was honored at a shower given Thursday evening at the home of Miss Bonnie Hammond. The honoree received a number of miscellaneous gifts. Lunch was served by the hostess and her mother.

Guests included Misses Twila Walters of Damascus and Jane Berger of Valley.

Major Alden West

Capt. Alden E. West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. West of 990 E. State st., has been promoted to the rank of major. It was announced by Col. Charles H. Dowman, commanding officer of Midland Army Air field, Texas.

Major West is a pilot at the Army Air Forces Central Flying Training command's key bombardier school. Back in the days of the CCC, Major West, then an enlisted trainee in the Fifth Corps area, met Gen. "Hap" Arnold, when the present commanding general of the Army Air Forces set his plane down for refueling, and the general gave the Salem man his first airplane ride.

Then and there, he was determined to become a pilot, and on March 15, 1941, he started in taking his primary training at Tulsa, Okla.

From there Maj. West went to Randolph field, Tex., for basic and advanced training at Brooks field, Tex., where he received his wings and commission in November, 1941, and then went to Ellington field, where he was appointed assistant engineering officer.

Maj. West arrived at Midland Army Air field in January, 1942, as a pilot, and in April, 1943, was appointed engineering officer. He completed an instrument course at Bryan, Tex., and in March, 1944, was appointed a training squadron commander.

He expects to complete a bombardier-navigator course next month and then will hold ratings as a pilot, bombardier and navigator.

Prior to entering active service, Maj. West was a structural iron worker for the Salem Engineering Co. He attended Wittenberg college, majoring in science.

Maj. and Mrs. West live at 305 S. Pecos st., Midland.

Pvt. Glen A. Shasteen, who has completed training at Altus Army air field, Altus, Okla., has been assigned to AAF training command radio school at the Sioux Falls, S. D., air field for training as a radio operator-mechanic. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shasteen of 830 Franklin st., he graduated from Salem High school in 1940 and entered service in December, 1943.

Mrs. Minnie LaVerne Moffett of Columbia st., has received word that her husband, Ralph Carl Moffett, has been sent to Great Lakes, Ill., naval training station for basic training.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Everstine of Euclid st. are spending a few days in Washington, D. C., with their son, Clarence Everstine, electrician's mate first class, a patient in a naval hospital there, who recently returned to the States after having seen active service in the Atlantic.

Pvt. Raymond Abrams, husband of Mary Abrams of S. Union ave., and Pvt. Charles Kelly, a brother of Adeline Ellison of Penn ave., recently won ratings of expert with the machine gun, two of the highest scores in their respective companies on the range at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Vita Anthony Faini, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Faini of E. Fifth st., graduated June 3 from the Naval Air training center, Corpus Christi, Tex., and was commissioned an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He received his preliminary flight instruction at the Pasco, Wash., Naval air base.

Relatives and friends here have learned that Sgt. Andrew Ulrich, stationed at Patterson field, Fairfield, O., has been promoted to technical Sgt.

Ray Nusbaum, husband of Mrs. Josephine Nusbaum of 284 E. Fourth st., has received a change of address. It is: Seaman Second Class Ray R. Nusbaum, armed guard, S. S. Joe E. Brown, care of fleet postoffice, New York City.

Roy C. Ripple, whose wife, Beatrice, lives at 620 Granite st., recently graduated from the Diesel school of the Naval Air Technical training station at Navy Pier, Chicago, Ill. He is now eligible to qualify for petty officer rating of motor machinist's mate third class.

Sgt. August Wikman, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Wikman of W. Wilson st., is stationed at an Air Service command station in England, helping to keep America's planes in flying condition. He is in the manufacturing and repair section which prepares modification kits, enabling ground crews to add latest plane improvements to ships at their home bases.

Sgt. Wikman was one of the men recently commended by Lieut. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commanding general of the U. S. Strategic Air Forces in Europe, when production at the

Heddeleston Replaces Owen On Fairmount Home Board

Paul C. Siddall of Alliance has been named president of the board of trustees of the Fairmont Children's home.

Russell C. Heddeleston of East Liverpool was installed as a new board member at a recent meeting, succeeding F. E. Owen of East Palestine, whose five-year term expired. The board is composed of five members, with one term expiring each year.

D. O. Hahn of Alliance is vice-president of the board and B. E. Staffell, superintendent of the home, secretary.

Discussion was held on the proposed installation of a playground water fountain and the purchase of a new stove for the kitchen.

Identify WAC, Soldier Who Leaped From Plane

DAYTON, June 12.—WAC Pfc. Dorothy Kimmel, 24, of Meadville, Pa., and Sgt. Paul L. Mays, 34, of Osborn, O., were killed Saturday in a low altitude leap from a bomber.

The two, stationed at Wright field, became frightened while on a routine mission and attempted to bail out. Their parachutes did not open. The public relations office at Wright field said the couple jumped when a parachute which had opened accidentally, began flapping against the side of the plane.

Navy Dog Dies Hero

LONDON, June 12.—Buffey, the cocker spaniel mascot of an LCI that went in on the initial waves of the invasion, was the first dog to land in France and died there.

She died a hero's death. Exploding land mines deafened her and the official report said death was due to nervous reaction caused by enemy action on the beach.

Buffey was the only casualty on the ship.

"She had the best sea legs in the United States fleet," said Signalman George Todd of Loran, O. Other members of the crew included Cook Kenneth Kyta of Athens, O.

5TH WAR LOAN

STARTS TODAY!

IT'S FOR INVASION!
FOR VICTORY!
FOR YOUR BOY!

WHY YOU ARE ASKED TO INVEST MORE
During the "ZERO HOUR" Drive

NOW, AS America goes all out for invasion—your dollars must join the fight, too! No matter how much you have done—you must do more! It is a solemn duty for every American to buy MORE War Bonds during the 5th WAR LOAN DRIVE—to keep the attack going—to help safeguard your country and your own boys in the fight. The job is big—you've got to dig!

It's a question of simple arithmetic: War costs more today than ever—and during invasion, the demands for supplies reach their peak. A heavy bomber costs about $250,000. A 155 mm. howitzer costs $23,000. Fighter planes cost $50,000.

Invasion barges, tanks, field guns cost thousands upon thousands of dollars. Invasion demands more and ever more fighting equipment to insure Victory. The money must come from every patriotic American at home.

BOOST YOUR PLEDGE

As America faces its "Zero Hour", our armed forces march unflinchingly forward. They are ready to die if need be.

And now, on the home front comes the command—back up our fighting men with the biggest War Loan of all. This is the "Zero Hour" Drive. Our duty is clear...

If you are on the payroll savings plan, buy extra bonds in this drive.

If you buy War Bonds regularly at your bank or Post Office, double your War Bond investment. But, whatever you do, whoever you are, ask yourself this question: "What have I done today that some mother's son should die for me tonight?" Then buy your extra $100—or $200—or $300 Bond. It's for Victory!

YANKS SLIPPING, BUT NOT OUT OF LEAGUE RACE YET

Champs Have Dropped 11 of Last 13 Games, But Did Same in 1943

By TED MEIER, Associated Press Sports Writer

They may be slipping, but don't count the World Champion New York Yankees out of the running in the American league baseball race.

The Yanks lost a doubleheader to the Boston Red Sox yesterday, 2 to 1 and 4 to 1, extending their string of defeats to 11 of their last 13 starts. But one need only recall last July when the Yanks were in the throes of a somewhat similar slump.

Then the Yanks were barely hanging onto first place by a few percentage points. Just when things looked blackest they won eight in a row and followed through by winning the flag and the world series.

Tex Hughson and Clem Hausmann pitched the Red Sox to their double triumph. Hughson's effort was a three-hit masterpiece. In addition, he drove in the winning run in the opener by getting an infield hit with the bases loaded.

Cards Step Out
The St. Louis Cardinals gained two games over their nearest National league competitors by whipping Cincinnati twice, 3 to 1 and 4 to 1, while the Cubs shut out Pittsburgh twice, 5 to 0 and 1 to 0.

The Cards set a league record for double plays in a doubleheader by making nine twin killings, four in the opener and five in the nightcap. Walker Cooper, Whitey Kurowski and Danny Litwiler hit consecutive homers for the Cards in the nightcap.

Paul Erickson turned in a two-hitter and Bob Chipman a five-hitter for the Cubs as they blanked the Pirates. Umpire George Magerkurth banished both Manager Frankie Frisch and Outfielder Johnny Barrett, of the Pirates, after an argument in the opener.

White Sox Win
The Chicago White Sox beat Dizzy Trout 4 to 2 for their eighth straight triumph in the first game of a twin bill with Detroit, but had their streak snapped in the afternoon when Stubby Overmire won 1-0 on Rudy York's ninth inning single. Detroit thus climbed into third place as the Sox went into a fourth place tie with the Yanks.

A grand slam seventh inning home run by Pinch Hitter Gene Moore gave the first place St. Louis Browns a split with Cleveland. The Indians took the opener, 13 to 1, behind Mel Harder, but Moore's round-tripper in the nightcap gave Bob Muncie and the Browns a 4 to 2 triumph. Umpire Charley Berry banished Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns in the second game.

The New York Giants swept a doubleheader from the Phillies, both by scores of 6 to 5 with the second game going 12 innings, before Phil Weintraub singled Mel Ott home with the winning tally.

Bobo Newsom and Luman Harris, aided by Joe Berry's relief pitching, twirled the Philadelphia Athletics to a double win over Washington, 6 to 1 and 6 to 5, pushing the Senators back into the cellar.

Brooklyn and the Boston Braves divided their twin bill. The Dodgers won the opener 5 to 4 in 10 innings on Howie Schultz' triple and an outfield fly. The Braves broke a six-game losing streak by taking the nightcap, 8 to 5.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Henry Armstrong and Al Davis, who likely will draw a lot of customers into Madison Square Garden Thursday night, hold a notable collection of boxing records. And if they perform at all like they did on their last Garden appearances, they'll establish another one—that the Garden's air conditioning system won't eliminate. When Henry lost to Ray Robinson (and retired for the second time) this corner was convinced Henry could lick any welterweight who would step up within hitting range, and he couldn't lick anyone who could duck expertly. Off his recent loss to Willie Joyce, that still goes.

Davis set a Garden record by knocking out Bob Montgomery virtually with one punch. Then against Beau Jack he couldn't even land one punch.

SLIGHT UNDERSTATEMENT
Lieut. Jim "Shanty" Hearn, former Georgia Tech third baseman, overcame an overheated radiator, a flat tire, bad weather and one of the south's better service ball clubs to pitch a no-hit game against Fort Bragg recently. This Led Buster Baynard, formerly of the Giants, to moan: "There goes one of the best prospects I've seen in a long time," when he learned Hearn belong to the Cards. A few days later "Shanty" hurled five still innings against Maxton Air base. That evening, while the GI's still were hoarse from cheering him, Hearn remarked: "You know, those were the least impressive innings I've ever pitched."

MONDAY MATINEE
An Army tug launched a few days ago was named "Man O' War." Fifteen others just like it also will be named after race horses. Which just goes to show the difference between horses and boats—Horsemen still are looking for a second Man O' War. Although All-American Creighton Miller and Pat Bailey both would be eligible to play next fall for Notre Dame, both are likely to turn to pro football because they think it would be unfair to undergraduates for them to continue after their normal varsity eligibility has expired. Filley, drafted by the Cleveland Rams, recently received a medical discharge from the Marines and is debating between the pros and the maritime service.

Zions, Winona Aces Beaten by Park A. C.

The Park A. C. softball squad turned back two opponents at Centennial park yesterday, beating the Zions 5-1, and the Winona Aces, 18-0, in both ends of a double header.

The first contest with Winona only went five innings. The Parks piled up three in the second, seven in the third, and eight more in the fourth. Skidger came through with a homer in the fourth inning.

The battle with the Zions was a bit more even, with Leftfielder Cibula and Pitcher Dick Hahn pounding out homers in the third and fourth.

Being Minus One Leg No Hardship To This Athlete

DALLAS—The chunky little guy complained of a sprained ankle. He said he could have played much better in the Texas open badminton tournament had he taken that rest from athletics he'd been needing for more than a year.

He did pretty well anyway, advancing to the quarter-finals in men's doubles in a tournament that included players from three states—Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. But it is not to be denied that a sprained ankle for Donald Kerr should be twice as tough as for anyone else. You see, Donald has only one leg.

But Kerr, now a shipyard worker at New Orleans, doesn't look upon that as a handicap. He participates in more sports than the next man and he asks favors from no one.

Accident When Eight
When Kerr was eight years old he fell under a train and his left leg was cut off just below the hip. He credits his parents with making him overcome any handicap fancied or real.

"They were tough; they made me do things I didn't think I could do, all with the idea of giving me confidence," he says. "It worked. I learned to ride a bicycle. Then one day, when I was 16, I was called upon to high jump in a high school intramural track meet. They said if I could get fifth place that would be fine. Well, I hopped five feet six inches and took second place. That's what really put me on the road."

Excellent Boxer
Kerr uses an artificial leg for most of his athletic participation. He was on the Tulane University boxing squad in the 125-pound class and good enough to rate No. 1 man at that weight. He won a number of bouts and was never knocked out. He missed intercollegiate meets because his opponents would forfeit to him.

"They would take this attitude: 'If I fight him and lose I'll look bad; if I fight him and win the crowd will be against me,'" says Kerr.

Runs Without Leg
Donald can run the high hurdles but doesn't use his artificial leg in that event. He also discards it for the high jump. He "runs" the 100 yards in 12 seconds and once hopped three miles in an endurance test.

He went out for football on the scrub team at Tulane but the coach made him quit; said Donald was hurting too many fellows who ran.

He is an expert fencer and also coaches that sport, being runnerup to the southern champion in foils one year. He won the southern rope climbing championship and came through in the Indian club contest. He was cheer leader at Tulane for two years. While holding this position he entertained the crowds with back flips.

He got his sprained ankle while working with a company building an army camp in Newfoundland and says it won't heal until he takes off about six months from his athletic activities. But somehow he just can't get around to taking time off.

Encourages Veterans
The 31-year-old yard accountant is built like a wrestler—broad shoulders, a big neck and muscular arms. "I really should be listed as 165 pounds," he grins. "You see, about 40 pounds of me is missing." He likes to go around visiting wounded war veterans, showing those who have lost arms or legs that they don't have to be liabilities. "I show them I can do anything anybody else can do except pick up a marble with the toes of my left foot," he smiles.

Cleveland East Tech Gets Nine Places And Columbus East Rates Seven On Squad

By HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, June 12.—Twenty schools had a share of the honors today on the Class A All-Ohio High school track and field team selected by the Ohio Association of Track Coaches but the lion's share went to Cleveland East Tech and Columbus East.

Thirty schools placed athletes on the Class B All-State team with Columbus university leading the field with four positions.

Cleveland East Tech, which won the state championship for the sixth straight year, got nine places on the Class A team and seven went to Columbus East, runner-up to the Carpenters in the state meet 10 days ago.

Orange, which won the Class B state championship, placed only two men on the All-State team. Trailing Columbus university were Canal Winchester, Lockland, Cincinnati Hartwell and Osborn-Bath with three places each.

Edgar C. Barker, secretary of the Track Coaches' association, said selections were based on consistency of performance throughout the season rather than on any one individual meet.

Here are the teams:

CLASS A
100-yard dash—Fred Johnson, Columbus East; Jumaal Afzal, Cleveland East Tech; Jos. Mascio, Ravenna.
220-yard dash—Jumaal Afzal, Cleveland East Tech; Fred Johnson, Columbus East; Harry Cogswell, Marietta.
440-yard dash—Harry Cogswell, Marietta; Paul Dunn, Lakewood; James Bailey, Columbus East.

880-yard run—Sylvester Stewart, Toledo Waite; Steven Orfanedes, Canton McKinley; Curtiss Phillips, Dayton Dunbar.

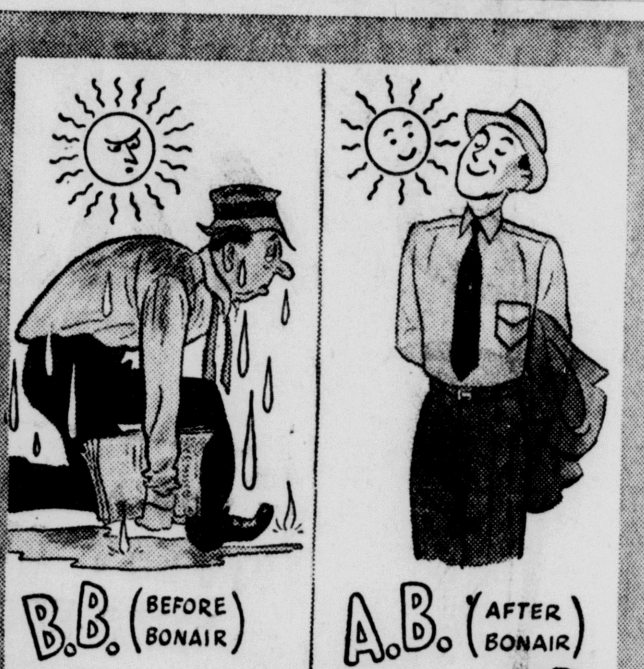

There are about 1,200 motion picture theaters in Canada.
Newfoundland's annual total cod catch averages 1,500,000 cwt.

Allied Airmen Lend Greatest Support To Invasion Troops

(By Associated Press)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 12.—American heavy bombers and streams of lighter craft pumped a steady hail of bombs and lead into German defenses today in the greatest aerial blows to date supporting the French invasion.

Flying in fine weather, the Allied air forces by noon had run up more sorties than all day yesterday—when 7,000 planes slammed the Germans. From dawn on—after a night in which RAF bombers pounded four key rail centers in France and went to Berlin—heavies, mediums, lights, fighter-bombers and fighters raced over the battlelines and far into France, bombing and strafing.

A significant new point in the support campaign became apparent. Squadrons of RAF fighters were attacking specific targets in rapid-fire order on calls from ground units—which meant newly established air bases on French soil were clicking.

Besides the speedy knockout of particular objectives immediately in front of the troops, the campaign was proceeding along two main lines—disruption of transport lines within 100 miles of the battleline over which Marshal Erwin Rommel is trying to bring up his tactical reserves and the bombardment of rail centers beyond the 100-mile radius through which the Germans might draw on strategic reserves in southern France.

The German air force was responding with heightening strength. About 100 enemy planes were over the battle area last night and American Thunderbolt fighter-bombers returning from an early morning foray reported opposition "the roughest yet."

The Germans claimed to have sunk one small troop transport in the Seine bay last night. American Marauders and Havocs bombed railroad and highway bridge targets without loss, and panicked concentration of troops at Falaise, southeast of Caen, flying so low a sergeant gunner reported, "you could pick out German lieutenants from sergeants and shoot the lieutenants."

Before breakfast time railroad yards, German road convoys and a seaplane base near Caudebec had been attacked by RAF mediums. Then a force of around 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators with swarming hundreds of escorting fighters swept in upon some of the airbases into which the Germans belatedly were shutting part of their lean air force.

SENATE GIVES

It recommended that Congress:

1. Set up an office of demobilization to coordinate the activities of all government agencies dealing with demobilization.

2. Enact legislation to assure speedy, fair termination of war contracts and clearing of war plants.

3. Provide proper regulations for marketing surplus war property.

4. Make necessary revisions in unemployment compensation laws.

5. Make certain that materials needed for construction of roads and public works, as well as private projects, are available immediately after hostilities end.

6. Frame legislation designed to stimulate housing construction.

7. Consider assistance for war workers who need retraining.

8. Study how long price controls and rationing should be retained.

9. Consider the probable post-war budget, cutting out unnecessary expenditures.

10. Study the problem of refinancing treasury obligations when War bonds are cashed in.

11. Study the problems of post-war taxation, pointing for rates that will stimulate investment and purchasing power—rates perhaps "dramatically lower than today's levels."

12. Examine the Securities and Exchange act to eliminate conditions the committee said make flotation of new and small security issues troublesome and expensive.

13. Explore the future of foreign trade.

14. Take steps to prevent monopolies and trade barriers.

15. Prevent excessive delegation of congressional powers.

16. Eliminate overlapping functions of government.

"If the Congress discharges its obligations in the fields set out above," the report said, "we can well have what Mr. (Bernard) Baruch called 'an adventure in prosperity.' If it does not, survey these fields and reach wise decisions in them, we can well have economic chaos."

Stewart To Nominate Bricker In Chicago

COLUMBUS, June 12.—Gov. John W. Bricker announced today that James Garfield Stewart, mayor of Cincinnati and Republican nominee for governor of Ohio, would nominate him for president at the national convention this month.

The governor said he was not yet ready to announce who his floor manager would be.

Stewart, who is not a delegate to the convention, is recognized as an outstanding orator. There will be four short "seconding" speeches, but the governor did not say who would deliver them.

Back from New York where he made two radio appearances last week, the governor said he would submit to the convention's resolutions committee June 23 a report of the postwar committee on industry, enterprise and employment of the governors' conference. Bricker is chairman of the committee.

CHUNKING, June 12.—An indication that the city of Chongsha was encircled was contained tonight in a communiqué of the Chinese high command which announced the Japanese were assaulting the Hunan province capital incessantly "from all directions."

Sees Hubby's Picture In War Bond Movie

While watching a war film, "Life Line," showing the battles of Rendova and Munda, as part of the opening program of the Fifth War Loan drive at the state theater this morning, Mrs. Ralph E. Cannon, a clerk in the Kresge store, saw her husband, Master Sgt. Ralph E. Cannon of Lisbon, among the fighting American troops.

Mrs. Cannon, who lives at 552 E. State st., said: "It was really thrilling to see him. Especially since he is on his way home now after being at a base hospital for nearly three and one-half months."

She is certain the picture was of her husband and her opinion is verified by several other persons who know him.

Sgt. Cannon has been overseas 25 months, being one of the first soldiers to enter the service from this district. A member of the 47th division, he was called into service in January, 1941. He left the country May 24, 1942, and participated in the battles of Munda, Rendova and Bougainville, where he was wounded.

Mrs. Cannon hasn't received any details on the wounding of her husband but the War department has notified her that he is being returned to this country.

Some time ago a dispatch from the War department praised the bravery of Sgt. Cannon and told of his receipt of an award after rescuing a fellow soldier who had been wounded during battle. Sgt. Cannon braved enemy fire and pulled his "buddy" back to safety, the citation said.

U. S. FIGHTER PILOTS PROVE SUPERIORITY

(By Associated Press) A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, June 12.—Superiority of American fighter pilots over Germans in the French invasion skies was illustrated sharply today when a squadron of 12 Thunderbolts broke up an attack of 20 ME109s and shot down 10 of them in 20 minutes at a cost of one Thunderbolt. The toll was one of the best squadron aerial combat scores of the ninth air force which has been on tactical duties while fellow pilots in the Eighth Air Force were running up big scores on long range strategic bomber escort missions in recent weeks.

The White House building and grounds in Washington occupy about 16 acres.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

estimate the Allied forces at between 20 and 25 divisions—four or five being paratroop divisions. With divisions at normal strength that might mean some 300,000 men. We are lucky if we have that many.

THE IMMEDIATE ALLIED AIM is to isolate the peninsula by slashing across the base, and to take the port of Cherbourg. This ambition involves the capture of the big and heavily defending railway and highway junctions of Caen, Saint Lo and Carentan. As a counter move, the Germans are attacking both Allied flanks on the 50-mile front growing out of the beachheads.

The Allies are getting ahead with the job, for today's reports place a spearhead half way across the peninsula. Particularly heavy fighting was proceeding in the area of the three railway junctions, and the German controlled Paris radio said that Allied paratroops were attacking a Nazi force east of Cherbourg.

At Caen, where bitter fighting has been proceeding almost since the earliest landing, Gen. Montgomery today launched an enormous Canadian and British troops. The capture of this place is of great importance, because it is the main direct gateway of approach for Rommel's reinforcements. Meantime, American forces were driving towards St. Lo from the northeast.

And don't overlook the grand news from Moscow. The Russians have launched an offensive which is sweeping into Finland—Hitler's left flank. The great milestones finally are grinding on both sides of Hitler.

PORTSMOUTH, June 12.—The body of a man in a black overcoat, brown sweater and size 6½ shoes was found on an Ohio river sandbar west of the city today.

CROP PROSPECTS IN OHIO IMPROVE

Ohio's crop prospects improved greatly last month because of warm weather and well-distributed rains, the Ohio Cooperative Crop Reporting Service announced.

Excellent progress was made in small grains, hay and pasture, the service reported, while wet fields delayed planting of corn and soybeans.

A bumper peach crop was predicted. The forecast was 1,021,000 bushels compared with 300,000 in 1943 and a 10-year average of 744,000.

Other crop predictions: Winter wheat—225 bushels to acre compared to 165 last year; hay—best season since 1918; pasture—best since 1922; oats—42,351 bushels, 200,000 above the 10-year average.

Now is the Time for Work, for Prayer

We have started the toughest job in the history of our country or of the world, a job which marks the beginning of the end of the war, we say. Words, however, come easy when we are not facing gun fire and bayonets; when we don't have to live and fight in the mud, rain and blistering heat. BUT, our part in the invasion is vital and urgent. Prayer, first of all, every day, yes every hour. And work as we have never worked before.
